INTRODUCTION

Dublin City University (“the University”) is committed to preserving the highest standards of integrity, transparency, probity and accountability, and recognises that both workers and students play a key role in achieving these aims. Wrongdoing such as corruption or malpractice, or the concealing of these, can have a devastating effect on our professional reputations, working relationships and morale. Often, workers and students can be the first to know when someone inside or connected with their organisation is involved in illegal or improper activity and practices, but often they may feel apprehensive about reporting their concerns. This may be because they feel that speaking up would be disloyal to their colleagues or, to the organisation itself or because they may fear they will experience negative repercussions (i.e. that they will be victimised) as a result.

International best practice in corporate governance recommends that organisations put in place formal procedures whereby individuals can report such concerns. The University has therefore developed this Protected Disclosure Policy (also commonly referred to as a ‘whistle blowing’ policy). This policy is viewed by the University as an integral component of its risk management process. The University takes all wrongdoings very seriously, whether they be by staff (including senior management), staff of University subsidiary companies or contractors. This Protected Disclosures Policy sets out a process by which concerns in relation to wrongdoings can be reported and dealt with in a clear, formal and safe manner.

The University recognises that workers and students have an important role to play in achieving this goal. The University will support workers and students who disclose information which they reasonably believe tends to show one or more wrongdoing(s). This policy also contains safeguards to deter mischievous reporting. In addition, the University Anti-Fraud Policy should be read in conjunction with this Policy.

PURPOSE

The purpose of the Protected Disclosures Policy is to encourage employees or students of the University or any person who works or has worked for the University to make a disclosure in respect of significant matters, and to provide protection for the person making the disclosure.

This Protected Disclosures Policy is intended to apply to major concerns that an individual may have regarding any aspect of the University’s activities or the conduct of other members of the University community that is not properly addressed within the scope of other University policies.

This policy aims to protect workers and students from penalisation where they make a disclosure of information that comes to their attention in connection with their work or study at the University. This information may include, but is not limited to, investigation results, findings, opinions or information obtained during the course of an individual performing his/her duties. A protected disclosure under this policy involves the disclosure of information which a worker or student reasonably believes demonstrates a suspected wrongdoing or dangers at the University. A protected disclosure may include information in relation to:

a) the commission of an offence;

b) failure to comply with any legal obligation;
c) miscarriages of justice;

d) endangering of the health and safety of an individual;

e) damage to the environment;

f) unlawful or improper use of funds and/or resources of a public body, or of other public money;

g) an act or omission of a public body which is oppressive, discriminatory, grossly negligent or constitutes gross mismanagement; or

h) the fact that information tending to show any matter falling within any of the above matters has been, is being or is likely to be concealed or destroyed.

If an individual has any genuine concerns related to suspected wrongdoing or danger affecting any of the University’s activities he/she should report it under this policy.

This policy should not be used for complaints relating to a worker’s or a student’s own personal circumstances or arising out of his/her work or studies with the University, such as the way he/she has been treated at work or in the course of his/her studies. In those cases the individual should use the University’s Staff or Student Grievance Procedure or the Policy to Promote Respect and to Protect Dignity where appropriate.

This policy is not designed to be used to re-open any matters that have been addressed under other University policies nor should it be viewed as an alternative to those procedures in respect of matters that would more appropriately be considered under them.

SCOPE

The aims of this policy are:

a) To encourage Relevant Persons to report suspected wrongdoing as soon as possible, in the knowledge that their concerns will be taken seriously and investigated as appropriate;

b) To provide to Relevant Persons guidance as to how to raise those concerns; and

c) To reassure Relevant Persons that they should be able to raise genuine concerns without fear of reprisals.

For the purposes of this policy ‘Relevant Persons’ are defined as:

- any person who is working or has worked at or for the University and/or its wholly owned subsidiary companies.
- all current and former students, full-time and part-time, of the University.

Employees of the University should note that this policy does not form part of any employee’s contract of employment and it may be amended by the University at any time.

PROTECTED DISCLOSURES – POLICY STATEMENT

The University’s existing line management structures and systems of internal control, both financial and operational, are the normal and correct mechanisms to detect and/or draw attention to irregularities of all kinds.

However, it is recognized that it is good practice to create an alternative reporting line as a mechanism of last resort and in such instances this Protected Disclosure Policy should apply.

Relevant Persons should be mindful of the fact that reporting provisions already exist in the following Irish legislation:

- Ethics in Public Office Acts 1995;
- Standards in Public Office Act 2001;
- Protections for Persons Reporting Child Abuse Act 1998;
- Competition Act 2002;
- Garda Síochána Act 2005;
• Safety Health and Welfare at Work Act 2005;
• Employment Permits Act 2006;
• Consumer Protection Act 2007;
• Health Act 2004;
• Communications Regulation Act 2002;
• Charities Act 2009;
• Prevention of Corruption (Amendment) Act 2001;

This is a non-exhaustive list. Reporting protected disclosures is specifically addressed in the Protected Disclosures Act 2014 (the ‘2014 Act’) and this policy shall be regarded as an “internal procedure” for the purposes of section 21 of the 2014 Act.

PROTECTED DISCLOSURES REPORTING CHANNELS FOR RELEVANT PERSONS

The Deputy-President, Chair of the Protected Disclosures Group (the ‘PDG’), has overall responsibility for this policy, and for reviewing the effectiveness of actions taken in response to concerns arising under this policy.

All disclosures under this policy should be made to the relevant recipient as identified below. As stated above however, this alternative reporting line should be treated as a last resort and the University’s existing line management structures and systems of internal control, both financial and operational, are the normal and correct mechanisms to detect and/or draw attention to irregularities of all kinds.

The recipient for employees:
An employee should raise their concerns with their line manager, Head of School or Unit.

If for any reasonable grounds the employee does not wish to report to their line manager, Head of Unit or Head of School, the employee may escalate the reporting in the following manner:
   a) Executive Dean or Director of Human Resources;
   b) President, if for any reason an employee does not wish to report the matter to the Executive Dean or Director of Human Resources; or
   c) Chancellor of the University, if for any reason an employee does not wish to report the matter to the President of the University.

Employees must exercise discretion and commit to keeping the reporting and investigation process confidential.

The recipient for students:
A student should raise their concerns with their Head of School.

If for any reasonable grounds a student does not wish to report to their Head of School, the student may escalate the reporting in the following manner:
   a) Executive Dean;
   b) Vice-President Academic Affairs/Registrar, if for any reason a student does not wish to report the matter to the Executive Dean;
   c) President, if for any reason a student does not wish to report the matter to the Vice-President Academic Affairs/Registrar; or
   d) Chancellor of the University, if for any reason a student does not wish to report the matter to the President.

Students must exercise discretion and commit to keeping the reporting and investigation process confidential.

The recipient for any other person who falls within the scope of this policy should raise their concerns with:
   a) Chief Operations Officer where appropriate;
   b) President where disclosures relate to any officer with a role under this policy; or
   c) Chancellor of the University where disclosures relate to the President.
Any person raising a concern must exercise discretion and commit to keeping the reporting and investigation process confidential.

EXTERNAL DISCLOSURES

The aim of this policy is to provide an internal mechanism for reporting, investigating and remedying any wrongdoing in the University. In most cases, workers and students should not find it necessary to make disclosures to anyone externally. In some specified circumstances it may be appropriate or required to report concerns to an external body such as a regulator or An Garda Síochána. It will very rarely, if ever, be appropriate to alert the media and, in general, workers and students should only do so as a last resort. We strongly encourage workers and students to seek advice before reporting a concern to anyone externally. A list of prescribed persons and or bodies for reporting certain types of concerns is available from the Department of Public Expenditure and Reform.

Where the worker is employed by the University, the worker can make a disclosure to the Minister for Education and Skills.

Concerns raised under this policy will usually relate to the conduct of University employees, but they may sometimes relate to the actions of a third party, such as a supplier or service provider. In some circumstances, the law may protect a worker or student if he/she raises the matter with the third party directly. However, the University encourages workers and students to report such concerns internally first. Workers and students should contact the relevant recipient identified above for guidance.

MAKING A DISCLOSURE

All disclosures by the Relevant Person to the recipient should be made in writing. The Relevant Person will need to be able to demonstrate and support the reasons for their concerns and provide evidence of their concerns where such evidence is available. Any reports setting out an individual’s concerns should be factual (to the best of their knowledge) and should address the following key points to the extent that such information is known to the individual in relation to a wrongdoing that has occurred, is occurring or is likely to occur:

- what has occurred (or is thought to have occurred)
- when it occurred
- where it occurred
- who was involved
- has the University been put at risk or suffered a loss as a result?
- has it happened before?
- has it been raised with anyone else either within the University or externally? If so, details of when/whom?
- are there any other witnesses?
- is there any supporting information or documentation?
- how the matter came to light

CONFIDENTIALITY

The University hopes that workers and students will feel able to voice concerns openly under this policy. The University will take all reasonable steps to protect the identity of the Relevant Person.

The identity of the Relevant Person may need to be disclosed:
- for the effective investigation of the disclosure;
- to prevent serious risk to security of the State, public health, public safety or the environment;
c) for the prevention, investigation or prosecution of a crime;
d) where disclosure is necessary in the public interest or
e) is required by law.

This is a non-exhaustive list. Note that the University cannot guarantee full anonymity, as the law may (in the circumstances already described) require the University to reveal the identity of a Relevant Person. This is in line with both applicable law, and international best practice in data protection compliance.

PROCEDURE IN RELATION TO ANONYMOUS NOTIFICATIONS

A Relevant Person is encouraged to identify himself/herself when making a disclosure, whenever possible. The University shall not generally investigate anonymous disclosures but such disclosures may be considered at the discretion of the University. When exercising this discretion, the University shall take into account the seriousness of the issues raised, the credibility of the concern and the capacity of the University to investigate an anonymous allegation. Any individual who subsequently identifies himself/herself as the discloser may be afforded protection under this policy where there has been adherence to the provisions of the policy.

ASSESSMENT, INVESTIGATION AND OUTCOME

Upon receipt of any disclosure in writing that is made under this policy, the recipient shall pass the information to the Deputy-President, Chair of the PDG. Concerns of the Relevant Person may be raised verbally by the recipient but should subsequently be confirmed in writing to the Deputy-President as soon as is reasonably practicable thereafter.

The PDG shall be responsible for the assessment and investigation of all disclosures in a timely and appropriate manner.

Membership of the PDG may include the following:

1. Deputy President (Chair)
2. Chief Operations Officer
3. One of the following depending on the allegation:
   a) Academic matters- the Vice-President for Academic Affairs/Registrar;
   b) Research matters - the Vice-President for Research and Innovation;
   c) Financial matters - Finance Director; or
d) Any other member of the senior management team.

Assessment
A member of the PDG will be nominated by it to carry out an initial assessment of the disclosure to determine whether it falls within the scope of this policy and whether it is necessary to carry out an investigation into the disclosure. That member will communicate the outcome of the assessment to the recipient.

The recipient to whom the original written disclosure was made shall, where appropriate, communicate to the Relevant Person as soon as reasonably practicable whether the matter shall be investigated further and what action has been taken or whether no action is to be taken.

Investigation
If the PDG decides that the disclosure falls within this policy and that it must be investigated, the scope and terms of reference of any investigation will be determined prior to the investigation being carried out. The PDG will appoint persons from within the PDG to carry out the investigation but such persons may be assisted by persons outside of the PDG. The member of the PDG who carries out the investigation will not have been previously involved at the assessment stage. In the course of the investigation the Relevant Person may be required to attend meetings in order to provide further information to the PDG. The member of the PDG will draft a report on his/her investigation.

In some instances, the PDG may at its discretion appoint an external third party to investigate the matter in circumstances where the third party has relevant and necessary specialised knowledge of the subject matter.

Outcome

The investigator’s report will be sent to a member of the PDG who was not involved at the assessment or investigation stage and this member will determine what, if any, action should be taken by the University. Such action could include changes to the way the University conducts its operations, disciplinary action (following the application of the disciplinary procedure), referral of the matter for consideration under a specific University policy or procedure, or a report to an appropriate third party, such as An Garda Síochána.

The PDG will endeavour to keep the worker or student who made the disclosure informed of the progress of the investigation and its likely timescale. However, sometimes the need for confidentiality or to facilitate a fair and comprehensive investigation may prevent the PDG giving him/her specific details of the investigation. The individual should treat any information about the investigation as confidential.

If the PDG concludes that the worker or student has made false allegations deliberately, maliciously or with a view to personal gain, he/she may be subject to disciplinary action in accordance with the University’s disciplinary policies and procedures.

In the case of a disclosure where it is determined by the PDG that there is no prima facie case to answer, a summary of the disclosure shall be reported to the Governing Authority.

Following any investigation and subsequent decision made by a member of the PDG, a written report shall be submitted by the PDG to the Governing Authority containing the following information:

- a) A description of the disclosure and the findings of the investigation;
- b) The effect the disclosure had on the University, if any;
- c) The means of perpetrating the malpractice or impropriety;
- d) The measures taken to prevent a recurrence;
- e) The action required to strengthen future responses under this policy;
- f) A conclusion as to the way forward;
- g) Whether any report has been made or is required to be made to any third party; and
- h) Any other relevant material.

REFERRAL UNDER ANTI-FRAUD POLICY

The PDG shall also determine whether the disclosure should be the subject of a referral under the University’s Anti-Fraud Policy and/or notified to the following:

- Subject of the disclosure;
- University insurers;
- An Garda Síochána;
- Any third party aligned with the University affected by the disclosure;
- Higher Education Authority;
- Department of Education and Skills; and
- Any other relevant authority.
PROTECTION AND SUPPORT FOR RELEVANT PERSONS MAKING DISCLOSURES

It is understandable that individuals who make disclosures are sometimes worried about possible repercussions. The University aims to encourage openness and will support workers and students who raise genuine concerns under this policy, even if they turn out to be mistaken.

Workers or students who make disclosures under this policy must not suffer any detrimental treatment as a result of raising a concern. Detrimental treatment (often referred to as penalisation) includes, but is not limited to, the following:

a) suspension, lay-off or dismissal,
b) demotion or loss of opportunity for promotion,
c) transfer of duties, change of location of place of work,
d) reduction in wages or change in working hours,
e) imposition or administering of any discipline, reprimand
f) unfair treatment,
g) coercion, intimidation or harassment,
h) discrimination or disadvantage,
i) injury, damage or loss,
j) threat of reprisal; or
k) other unfavourable treatment connected with raising a concern.

It should be noted that those aspects of the above list which are designed to apply to workers (such as demotion, transfer of duties or reduction in wages etc.) will not be applicable to students.

If a worker or student believes that he/she has suffered any such detrimental treatment, he/she should immediately inform his/her line manager, Head of Unit or Head of School, where appropriate. It shall be the responsibility of the line manager, Head of Unit or Head of School to take the necessary actions in response to this complaint, in a timely fashion, which shall include referring the matter directly to the Deputy-President. In instances where the line manager, Head of Unit or Head of School is involved in the alleged penalisation, the Relevant Person should report the matter to the Deputy President in his/her role as Chair of the PDG or directly to the University President.

Workers or students must not threaten or retaliate against workers or students who make disclosures under this policy in any way. If an individual is involved in such conduct he/she may be subject to disciplinary action.

However, where the University reasonably believes that a false disclosure is deliberately made, it may take appropriate action against individuals. Any actions taken by the University with respect to University workers and students shall be initiated in accordance with the appropriate University regulations and disciplinary procedures, which may include (but are not restricted to) any of the following:

a. The initiation of steps for implementation of the Dublin City University disciplinary procedures under Dublin City University Statute No. 5 of 2010: ‘Suspension and Dismissal of Employees’ leading to demotion or dismissal (relevant to Dublin City University employees only).
b. The initiation of steps for implementation of the Dublin City University disciplinary procedures under the terms of the University Regulations for undergraduate or postgraduate students.

The University shall not tolerate or permit any form of detrimental treatment as a result of a disclosure of a reasonably held concern and shall take all appropriate action to support any Relevant Person who raises such a concern. Appropriate disciplinary action shall be taken in accordance with the appropriate University regulations and disciplinary procedures, against any worker or student who is found to have subjected a Relevant Person to penalisation for raising a concern under this policy.
ANNUAL REPORT

The Deputy President shall maintain a record of all allegations received and investigations carried out under this policy by the PDG.

An Annual Report will be submitted to the University’s Governing Authority and will be published, not later than 30th June in each year, in relation to protected disclosures received by the University in the preceding calendar year. The Annual Report shall maintain the anonymity of all those involved and shall include information on:

- numbers of protected disclosures made to the University;
- numbers of disclosures referred to another procedure;
- numbers of disclosures investigated by the PDG and not upheld or requiring further action;
- numbers of disclosures upheld; and
- actions (if any) taken in response to protected disclosures upheld.

POLICY REVIEW

The Policy shall be reviewed by the University Executive within 12 months of implementation and every two years thereafter.
