

Teaching and Assessing in Health Care Practice

Module code: NS4543

Enhancing the quality of clinical education.

Who should apply:

Practitioners from diverse healthcare fields including nurses and allied professionals such as preceptors, mentors, clinical placement coordinators, clinical nurse/midwife managers, clinical nurse/midwife specialists, advanced nurse/midwife practitioners, clinical/education facilitators, practice supervisors, clinical practice support staff, and others with varying levels of experience.

Content and structure:

This module aims to assist those with teaching and mentoring responsibilities in health care practice to become more proficient in adapting and structuring their teaching according to learner preferences and diverse educational settings. The module focuses on two main topics:

- Clinical teaching and learning
- Clinical assessment, feedback and evaluation.

Throughout, the module underlines the role of patient/service-user involvement within clinical education.

This stand-alone module delivered over 2 semesters (Sept-June) is a blended-learning module with online content and face-to-face interaction. The module facilitates those who work in health care practice through flexible online learning. Interactive online parts include virtual classrooms, puzzles, speech bubbles, word clouds, audio clips and videos. Assessment is carried out through online portfolios and reflections.
