CEDEFOP | European Centre for the Development of Vocational Training

Roundtable on a 'One Stop Shop' Combining Community Based Multidisciplinary Teams with Community Lifelong Learning Centres

Dr. Irene Psifidou

Expert

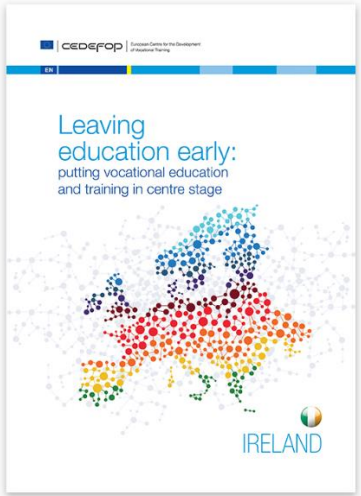
Learning and employability

Dublin City University, Educational Disadvantage Centre

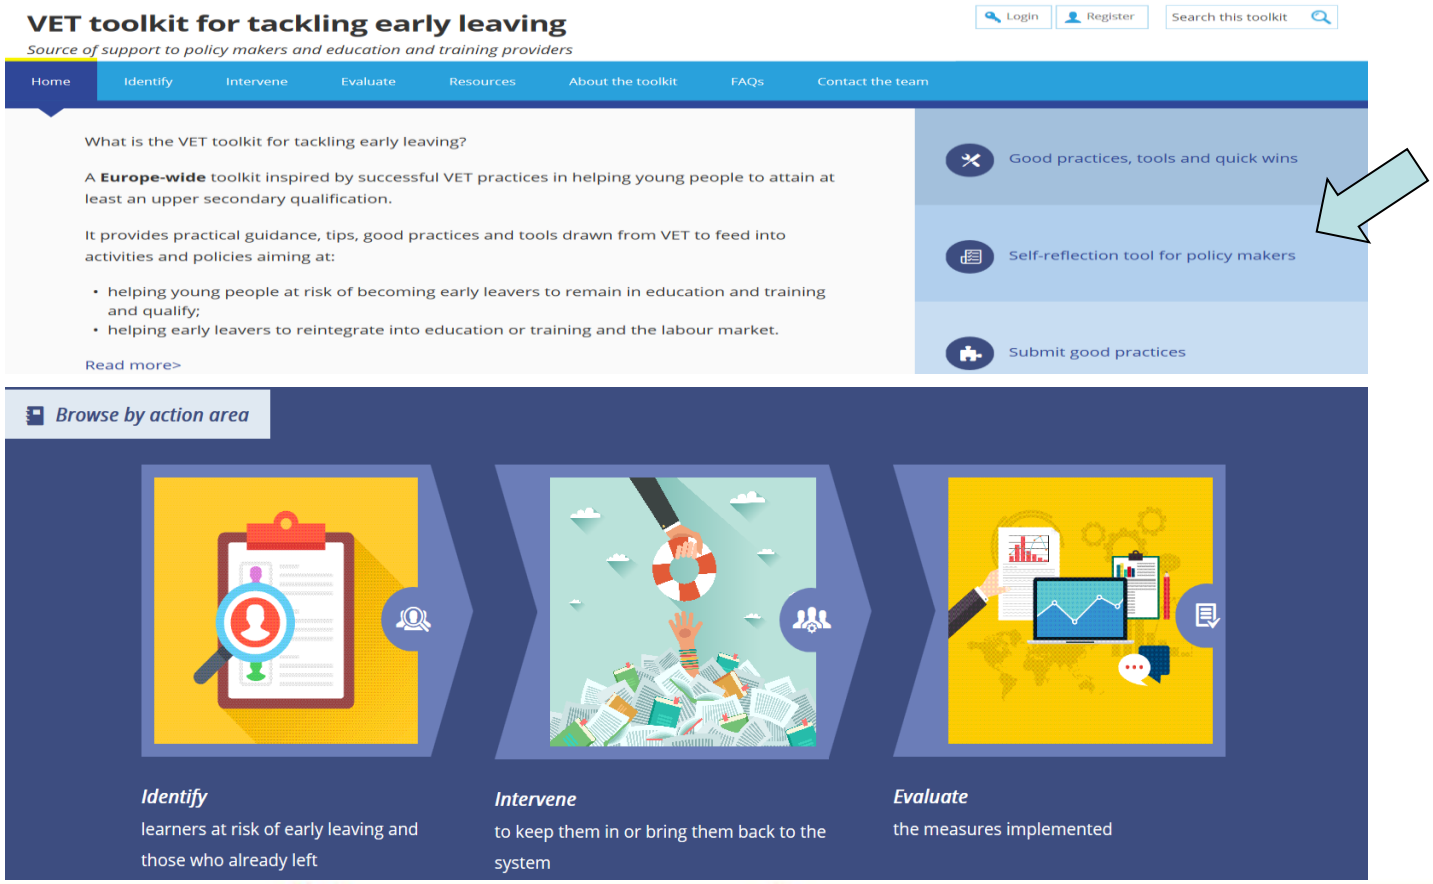
20 September 2017

Multidisciplinary teams - a successful practice at Cedefop research findings

- Active outreach approach needed to reach early school leavers
- Multidisciplinary teams have been key to address potential early leavers with complex multifaceted kinds of needs



Multidisciplinary teams part of Cedefop structural indicators self-reflection tool



Added value of 'One Stop Shop'

- Stops the fragmentation of services
- Stops individuals “falling through the net”
- Helps people build up trust
- Accessible (e.g. for minority groups)
- Flexible (to select support services needed)
- May combine both non-formal and formal education
- Places VET within a LLL framework and also supports development of people's soft skills

How Cedefop may be of support

- Functioning as information broker
- Providing country thematic reviews
- Promoting peer learning
- Offering a common web platform

www.cedefop.europe.eu/TEL-toolkit