

DUBLIN CITY UNIVERSITY BUSINESS SCHOOL (DCUBS)

Lecturer in Accounting (Five year Contract)

An innovative and dynamic Business School, DCUBS offers an extensive range of research and taught programmes at undergraduate, postgraduate, executive and doctoral levels. Working in close collaboration with DCU faculties, business interests in the public and private sectors, and its international partners, the School's portfolio of programmes is regularly updated and expanded to reflect the changing needs of business leaders.

Position

Reporting to the Dean of DCU Business School, the successful candidate will conduct high quality teaching and research in Accounting and will play an active role in the Accounting Group and in the School more widely. The Accounting Group brings together academics whose research and teaching interests span a wide range of areas that inform the accounting profession and accountants working in industry. Members of the Accounting Group have established a strong international research reputation in the areas of management accounting and control systems, accounting education, and the accounting profession. The Accounting Group is primarily responsible for four programmes: the MSc in Accounting, the postgraduate Professional Diploma in Accounting/Taxation and the B.A. in Accounting and Finance. All of these programmes receive generous exemptions from the professional accountancy bodies. In addition, the group contributes to the full range of academic programmes within DCU Business School and the Centre for Executive and International Education.

Main Duties

Teaching

The successful candidate is expected:

- To contribute to the delivery and development of Accounting modules at DCU in a manner consistent with the highest academic standards
- To use a wide range of learning and teaching methodologies and assessments which foster a deep approach to learning and which equip students with the skills needed to be lifelong learners
- To work proactively in improving existing modules and programmes
- To contribute to the design and development of new modules and programmes
- To provide research supervision for taught postgraduate students
- To contribute to the teaching activities of the Centre for Executive and International Education

Research

To contribute to the research activity of DCU Business School by:

- Publishing new ideas and findings in national and international journals
- Seeking funds to support research initiatives
- Contributing to research activities such as conferences, seminars etc.
- Supervising postgraduate research students

Good Citizenship

- To play an appropriate role in the administration and leadership/management of DCU Business School and the Group
- To contribute to the running of DCU Business School's activities through participation in, for example, ad hoc events and open days
- To be prepared to contribute proactively to relevant University and external committees

External Contribution

- To raise the external profile of DCU Business School by establishing close working relationships with business organisations and professional bodies and other enterprises.
- To represent the School externally as appropriate

Person Specification

Candidates must have a relevant honours degree, preferably a 1.1 or 2.1 honour and previous teaching and research experience. Candidates must have commenced a PhD or must clearly demonstrate a strong commitment to pursuing a PhD. It is highly desirable for candidates to hold a professional accounting qualification and a relevant postgraduate qualification. The candidate should also demonstrate excellent interpersonal and communication skills consistent with the highest quality of teaching and learning, together with evidence of successful teamwork and a collegial approach.

The successful candidate will have the opportunity to play a leadership role in the further development of the School's national and international reputation, and to make a significant contribution to the research activity of the School and to the design, delivery and management of courses at undergraduate, postgraduate and executive levels.
