Dublin City University

Dublin City University (DCU) is a young, ambitious and vibrant university, with a mission 'to transform lives and societies through education, research, innovation and engagement'. Known as Ireland's 'University of Enterprise', DCU is a values-based institution, committed to the delivery of impact for the public good. DCU was named Sunday Times Irish University of the Year 2021.

DCU is based on three academic campuses in the Glasnevin-Drumcondra region of north Dublin. More than 18,000 students are enrolled across five faculties – Science and Health, DCU Business School, Computing and Engineering, Humanities and Social Sciences and DCU Institute of Education.

DCU is committed to excellence across all its activities. This is demonstrated by its world-class research initiatives, its cutting-edge approach to teaching and learning, its focus on delivering a transformative student experience, and its positive social and economic impact. The university continues to develop innovative programmes in collaboration with industry, such as the DCU Futures suite of degrees, which are designed to equip graduates with the skills and knowledge required in a rapidly evolving economy.

DCU's pursuit of excellence has led to its current ranking among the top 2% of universities globally. It is also one of the world's Top Young Universities (QS Top 100 Under 50, Times Higher Top 150 Under 100). In the Times Higher Education University Impact Rankings 2021, DCU ranked 23rd in the world for its approach to widening participation in higher education and its ongoing commitment to eradicating poverty, while it ranks 38th globally for its work in reducing inequality and 89th globally for gender equality.

The university is ranked 23rd in the world and first in Ireland for its graduate employment rate, according to the 2020 QS Graduate Employability Rankings. Over the past decade, DCU has been the leading Irish university in the area of technology transfer, as reflected by licensing of intellectual property.

Overview of the department

Led by the Dean of Graduate Studies, the DCU Graduate Studies Office directs development of all aspects of graduate education in the University. Graduate studies are central to our teaching, learning and research mission. The University hosts approximately 900 research students and over 4000 taught postgraduate students. Our external engagements with enterprise and wider academia are manifest through activities at graduate level nationally and internationally. Our research profile is significantly contributed to by the work of research students, and our national and international standing is influenced by the perception of our taught postgraduate offerings and experience.

The responsibilities of the Graduate Studies Office include coordinating and facilitating research student support and development, working with Schools and Faculties to develop the University's policies in relation to best practice in research degrees and in research supervision, coordinating processes and supports relevant to graduate students, representing graduate student interests in decision-making internally and on appropriate external bodies, representing DCU at appropriate national and international fora, implementing inter-institutional initiatives relating to graduate education, administering scholarships and payments for research students and providing orientation, advice and training opportunities for students and staff.
