Promotion to Associate Professor

Frequently Asked Questions

Q1. Can an applicant who was unsuccessful in the 2020 process apply now?
A. Yes. As the last promotion call was in May 2020, the applicant has effectively completed the 2-year waiting periods and can now apply for promotion through this year's call.

Q.2 What email address do I use to submit my application?
A. Submit one signed electronic copy of the application (including appendices) as a pdf file to hr.apcapplications@dcu.ie

Please submit books chosen as published work directly to The Director of Human Resources, Human Resources Department, DCU, marked Confidential, Addressee only, Associate Professor application. Please note that books must also be submitted by the specified application deadline.

Q.3 Can an applicant include pre-academia experience in their application for promotion?
A. Should an applicant have pre-academia experience, it is expected that their strengths and experience will have become evident in the activities and roles they have subsequently taken on since joining DCU. The process is about both assessing experience and identifying potential, therefore it is important that the applicant includes evidence in their application that they are continuing on a trajectory of academic success.

Q.4. Should an applicant who has recent Ph.D experience include such details in their application?
The process is about both assessing experience and identifying potential, therefore it is important that the applicant includes evidence in their application that they are continuing on a trajectory of academic success.

Q5. Where the form asks applicants to outline their experience over the last 5 years, and if the applicant has been on a certain type of leave, e.g. maternity leave for one year, that may affect their output, should the applicant outline their experience over the last 6 years instead?
A. Yes – An applicant can extend the period, add a year for each year of leave but include the leave description, i.e. sabbatical, maternity, sick
Page 2 allows candidates to provide information in relation to periods of leave and this should be taken into consideration when the application is being reviewed.

Q6. The Associate Professor presentation refers to the “Highlights of Application”. Where is this section on the Application Form?
A. The Highlights of Application section on Page 2 of the application form allows the applicant to state the highlights of her/his case for promotion.

Q7. How are the Highlights of Application scored?
A. This is not scored explicitly but is taken into account within the scoring over the three domains.

Q8. In Section 1.1.1 of the application form, what is meant by level 1-5?
A. Levels 1 to 5 refer to:
   1 - Year 1 – undergraduate programme
   2 - Year 2 – undergraduate programme
   3 - Year 3 – undergraduate programme
   4 - Year 4 – undergraduate programme
   5 - Masters Level and Above

Q9. In Section 1.1.2 of the application form, what is meant by “the most demanding first”?
A. “The most demanding first” refers to the modules taught that carry the heaviest load or highest level.

Q10. Does class size matter in when being scored?
A. The size of a class makes no difference in the scoring process.

Q11. If an applicant has a forthcoming publication, is it possible to include that publication in the application?
A. If the applicant decides that this is important to her/his case for promotion then the applicant should include the publication details in her/his application in section 2.1 and in the Appendix. It should be made clear what stage of publication it is at, i.e. it may be under initial review, or reviewed and revisions may have been submitted but still under consideration, or it may have completely finished the peer-review process and any revisions have been fully accepted but not yet published. If an applicant chooses to include a forthcoming publication, the specific status should be made clear. A piece of work that has just been submitted is unlikely to carry much weight, and reviewers will be aware of the pattern of publishing when considering the likelihood of forthcoming output being published and having impact. Work in preparation, but not yet under review should not be included.
Q12. If an applicant has a forthcoming publication is it possible to submit that publication for review?
A. If the applicant decides that this is important to her/his case for promotion then the applicant can nominate such publications as one of those for review in section 2.5 ‘Research Quality & Productivity: Impact’, but only if the work has been accepted for publication and if a letter confirming the acceptance of the work by the publisher and the date of the publication accompanies her/his application. As this work will not be available to reviewers, it will also be necessary to submit the latest version you possess, for example proofs (hardcopy).

Q13. Is it a conflict that the Dean of the Business School provides a reference as Head of School and also participates on the Faculty Review Panel?
A. It was clarified that this was not a conflict. Each applicant's case is discussed in detail at the Faculty Review Panel and there is also a 'Common Dean' involved to ensure consistency in the process.

Q14. In terms of the Head of School reference, can a Director of a Research Centre be a referee in place of the Head of School?
A. Yes this is possible, however, the applicant is advised to remember that the person writing the reference must be able to comment on the applicant's suitability for promotion under the three domains.

Q15. Who can an applicant choose as their Referee?
A. The chosen referee should be an eminent academic or professional expert in the applicant's field, who is external to the university, and can provide an objective academic opinion on the candidate.

Q16. Can the nominated external referee be at the level of Associate Professor?
Yes, this has happened on occasion over the years, but it is not a frequent occurrence and most external referees are at the level of Full Professor or Professor.

Q17. Can the nominated external referee be a retired member of staff?
No. A retired member of staff is not considered to be suitable as an external referee in this process.

Q18. Should the applicant contact the nominated external referee in the first instance?
A. This is the recommended approach. Human Resources will write to the external referee to ask them to provide their reference, so it is recommended that the applicant informs the nominated referee to expect contact from HR.
Q19. Will the external referee be provided with a copy of the application form?
A. External referees are not provided with an electronic copy of an application by the HR Department; however, the applicant may choose to share his/her application directly with his/her referee.

Q20. What happens in the case where an applicant received a low score from one Faculty Review Panel member and a high score from another member?
A. The applicant is scored by each Faculty Review Panel member over three domains. The average score for each applicant over the three domains is then calculated. The scores for all applicants are discussed and considered and a final set of scores is agreed by the full Faculty Review Panel.

Q21. Will there be one successful applicant from each Faculty?
A. This is not always the case; the successful candidates will depend on the ranking across the university, agreed by the Academic Promotions Committee.

Q22. Is the ranking of candidates ever changed at the Academic Promotions Committee, after the Faculty Review Panels?
A. APC should not impact FRP rankings, however this has happened but very rarely and only in exceptional, well-evidenced cases.

Q23. Is consideration given, during the Associate Professor Promotions Process, to the number of Associate Professors that are already in a Faculty?
A. No, the Policy for Targeted Promotion to Associate Professor deals with this.

Q24. In relation to the Head of School reference, what happens in the case where the applicant has a new Head of School?
A. The request shall be made of the current Head of School if he/she has been in post for a minimum of six months. If the current Head of School has been in post for a period of less than six months, applicants may opt to nominate the previous Head of School/Dean DCUBS.
Q25. What if the Head of School is also applying for promotion to Associate Professor?

A. Applicants may opt to nominate the previous Head of School/Dean DCUBS to provide a reference.

In relation to the Faculty Review Panel, the School should elect a second academic staff member (Associate Professor grade or above) to replace the Head of School on the panel. This staff member can also provide a reference for an applicant, instead of the Head of School.

Q26. Does the University acknowledge gender imbalance during the Associate Professor Promotions process?

A. Following the recommendation of the HEA National Review of Gender Equality in Irish Higher Education Institutions (June 2016) and in line with DCU's Strategic Plan (2017-2022)- Talent, Discovery and Transformation, which states the University's commitment to continue to promote principles of equality, inclusion and to embrace diversity, the DCU Executive Committee has given approval for four Associate Professor posts for the 2022 promotion round, of which there will be four male and four female applicants promoted. Unconscious Bias Training will also be delivered to DCU staff involved in the FRPs and the APC.

Q27. What is the guideline in relation to points on salary scale for those promoted under the Associate Professor Promotions Process?

A. This is outlined in the policy for Pay Upon Promotion for Internal Staff - https://www.dcu.ie/sites/default/files/hr/docs/internal_remuneration_policy.pdf

Q28. How or where should an applicant make reference to one piece of work that originated as Teaching and was then further developed through Research?

A. This can be covered in Domain 1: Teaching and Learning area of the application and further relevant reference can be made to it under Domain 2: Research and Scholarship.
Q29. Is feedback available to applicants after the promotions process is complete?
A. Applicants are advised to contact their Executive Dean to discuss the outcome of their application. This feedback can be useful if an applicant attends to apply for future promotion rounds.

Q30. If a Table in the application is not relevant to an applicant, is it possible to remove or edit this table?
A. If an applicant considers a table in the application to be irrelevant, it is permissible to remove unused rows from the table, however, the title of the table must remain and an applicant can indicate that it is not applicable to their application.

No table or question or sub-section may be entirely deleted, however, please note the following:

- If a table has a row for each year, that row should be left in the document even if blank.

- If you have no publications or teaching in a given year that row must be left in the table.

- If a table asked for information such as modules taught in table 1.1.1, or additional modules 1.1.3 you can delete rows you do not need – but you must leave the top row of the table (with the sub-headings) and at least one other row – so that the form remains clear.

- In table 1.1.2 where there are a number of rows per year you must leave at least one row for each year – even if you did not teach in that year.

- Tables which ask for information on publications, specifically in sections 2.1.1 to 2.1.4 should not be altered, even if you have no publications in a given year.

- If you have no information whatsoever to include in tables 2.1.5 (Creative media) or 2.1.6 (patents) you must leave the question and the top row of the table (with the sub-headings) and at least one other row – so that the form remains clear, but can delete other rows.

- Tables related to research students, i.e. 2.2.2, 2.2.3 and 2.2.4 cannot be altered at all even if some rows are blank.

- In tables 2.2.1 and tables in section 2.3 and 2.5.3 you can delete rows you do not need but you must leave the question and the top row of the table (with the sub-headings) and at least one other row – so that the form remains clear.

Q31. Is it necessary to input information under each of the dimensions?
A. No. Applicants can only use information once, and must judge where it best supports their case. If he/she has not been active in a particular dimension, then it is legitimate to indicate that is not applicable and save word-count for other sections. However it is noteworthy that higher scored applications will have evidenced achievement ‘across several/all other dimensions of the Domain being scored’.

Q32. Is there a vertical line within the columns in tables, 2.1.1 to 2.1.4 to insert relevant numbers on the right and left side of the columns?
A. No, numbers can be inserted on the left and right of the relevant column without vertical line breaks in the column.

Q33. How are members of the Faculty Review Panel’s elected?
A. The membership of the Faculty Review Panel is provided on page 4 of the Policy document. There is one member of academic staff from each school, elected by the academic staff members of the relevant school.

Q34. Can an applicant provide details on mentorship roles?
A. Yes. Applicants are advised to be specific in relation to their mentorship role. Applicants should be able to show the difference they have made and demonstrate the effectiveness of their mentorship.
Q35. Can a part-time academic staff member apply for promotion to Associate Professor in this process.

A.No, Applicants applying for promotion to Associate Professor in this process must be employed on a full-term basis. Please refer to page 1 and 2 of the Policy, Procedures, Criteria and Guidelines for full information on eligibility criteria.
