DCU Ability 'Introduction to Work' Course

Information booklet for families and support people

10th January -

3rd March
2022

1. The 'Introduction to Work' course

The DCU Ability 'Introduction to Work' is an 8-week blended learning course available to learners with intellectual disabilities across the country. The course is particularly suited to learners with a limited experience of work to date.

Learners work with their support person and the course tutors in a home or service environment for approximately 3 hours per week. The course uses a combination of online and offline learning activities.

The overall aim of the 'Introduction to Work' course is to build learners' understanding of work, and to support them to explore ideas for their own working future. Learners will learn about types of work, and will begin to identify their own interests and preferences for work. They will begin to understand and practice skills that will help them to prepare for a workplace setting.

A further aim of this course is to support the designated support person in helping the learner on their life long journey of work. As the course progresses, support people and learners will liaise with the course Careers Advisor. Together, they will begin to plan opportunities which can increase the learner's experience of work, enhance skills for work and move closer to paid employment, if this is the learner's goal.

2. Course requirements

Learner course requirements

In order to attend the course, learners will need:

- A designated support person to work alongside to complete the weekly coursework.
- Time to complete coursework (90 minutes approx.), plus one hour's availability on Thursday mornings throughout the course.
- Access to a laptop or PC (a smartphone screen will not be suitable). Please note, Google Chromebooks can be loaned by DCU Ability for the duration of the course.
- Internet connection and an individual email address.

Role and commitment of the support person

Support people will be asked to attend weekly meetings with the DCU Ability team every Monday during the course at 10am. This meeting will discuss the weekly sessions in detail. It will also give support people the opportunity to collaborate with one another, and to work with the DCU Ability team to develop the best experience possible for their learner during the course.

During the week, support people will work with their learner to complete their coursework. Coursework will include using online supports (DCU Loop, Flipgrid website) and the Learner Activity Folder, as well as taking photos to send to the tutor. Full instructions will be provided in the Support Person Planning Booklet.

On Thursday mornings, support people will work with learners to attend their group Zoom Class Group at a scheduled time (9.30, 10.30 or 11.30am, as agreed per individual learner).

'All About Me at Work' is written in an accessible style using photos. It can serve as a prompt or reference document that learners can use to share important information about themselves in work, e.g. when meeting an employer.
