Dublin City University

Dublin City University (DCU) is a leading innovative European University. It is proud to be one of the world's leading Young Universities and is among the world's top 2% globally. DCU is known as Ireland's University of Impact, with a mission to 'transform lives and societies' and focuses on addressing global challenges in collaboration with key national and international partners and stakeholders.

DCU has over 20,000 students in five faculties spread across three academic campuses in the Glasnevin-Drumcondra area of North Dublin. Thanks to its innovative approach to teaching and learning, the University offers a 'transformative student experience' that helps to develop highly sought-after graduates. DCU is currently No. 1 in Ireland for Graduate Employment Rate, and for graduate income (CSO).

DCU is a research-intensive University and is home to a number of SFI-funded Research Centres. The University participates in a range of European and international research partnerships. DCU is also the leading Irish university in the area of technology transfer as reflected by licensing of intellectual property.

As a 'People First' institution, DCU is committed to Equality, Diversity and Inclusion - a University that helps staff and students to thrive. The University is a leader in terms of its work to increase access to education and is placed in the world's Top 10 for reducing inequalities in the Times Higher Education Impact Rankings.

Overview of the department

Led by the Dean of Graduate Studies, the DCU Graduate Studies Office directs development of all aspects of graduate education in the University. Graduate studies are central to our teaching, learning and research mission. The University hosts approximately 900 research students. Our external engagements with enterprise and wider academia are manifest through activities at graduate level nationally and internationally. Our research profile is significantly contributed to by the work of research students, and our national and international standing is influenced by the perception of our postgraduate offerings and experience.

The remit of the Graduate Studies Office include coordinating and facilitating research student support and development, working with Schools and Faculties to develop the University's policies in relation to best practice in research degrees and in research supervision, coordinating processes and supports relevant to graduate students, representing graduate student interests in decision-making internally and on appropriate external bodies, representing DCU at appropriate national and international fora, implementing inter-institutional initiatives relating to graduate education, administering scholarships and payments for research students and providing orientation, advice and training opportunities for students and staff.
