

From Scrolls to Scrolling: Sacred Texts, Materiality, and Changing Media Cultures

In collaboration with the University of Heidelberg's Material Text Cultures Research Centre, the DCU School of Theology, Philosophy, and Music is hosting a one-day symposium exploring the materiality of sacred texts. Presentations will investigate the social and cultural implications of the use of Scriptures in diverse media from antiquity to the present day, from scrolls to digital formats.

When: Wednesday 6 September 2017

Where: Dublin City University, DCU All Hallows Campus,
Purcell House, Drumcondra, Dublin 9

For information and booking, please contact:
Dr Brad Anderson - brad.anderson@dcu.ie

This project is funded by the Irish Research Council, in collaboration with the DCU School of Theology, Philosophy, and Music, the Material Text Cultures Research Centre, University of Heidelberg, and the Chester Beatty Library.